

RELEASE

Dear customers and friends:

Peru and most countries in the world are currently facing a severe health crisis. The Government has decreed a State of Emergency and the suspension of all those activities that are not considered essential. Our main concern in the immediate term is the well-being of our collaborators, customers and suppliers and therefore we are strictly abiding by the legal provisions in this regard.

However, the Firm is prepared to continue offering its services in person and has the technology to do so. Our attorneys and staff are attentive to any requirement that may be addressed remotely and we are trying to keep you informed of the most relevant changes and developments in the legal field. Any questions or queries you have on the matter can be directed to the emails of our professionals, including their cell phones.

We know that this will affect everyone's economy, but if we act responsibly and in solidarity we will overcome this difficulty.

We will keep you permanently informed of any changes.

Stay home and take care of yourself.
